

At Crayola, we believe being "responsible" means doing what is right. It is being a good citizen in the communities and countries where we operate and our products are found. It means incorporating social and environmental priorities and practices into our Crayola brand, our products and our relationships with customers, vendors, consumers and employees.

We believe that "What if?" is the greatest question in the world, a question that makes the impossible permissible. It's also a question that helps Crayolians think more like kids – our #1 consumer.

At Crayola, our purpose is to help parents and educators raise creatively-alive kids. We want to help kids ask those "what if?" questions that keep them curious.
