

Health Network
LABORATORIES®

Career Pathways within Health Network Laboratories

Core Laboratory

794 Roble Road, Allentown PA 18109

Positions within HNL

- Medical Technicians / Technologists
- Phlebotomists
- Lab Assistants
- Customer Care Representatives
- Billing / Coding Personnel
- Information & Network Services Personnel
- Sales & Marketing

Career Paths for High School Students

Entry-level positions are available to those with a High School diploma / GED:

- Laboratory Assistants: On-the-job training includes handling patient specimens and requires good computing skills
- Customer Care Representatives: answering calls from colleagues, patients and physicians; requires conversational and computing skills

Overview of Advancement Opportunities

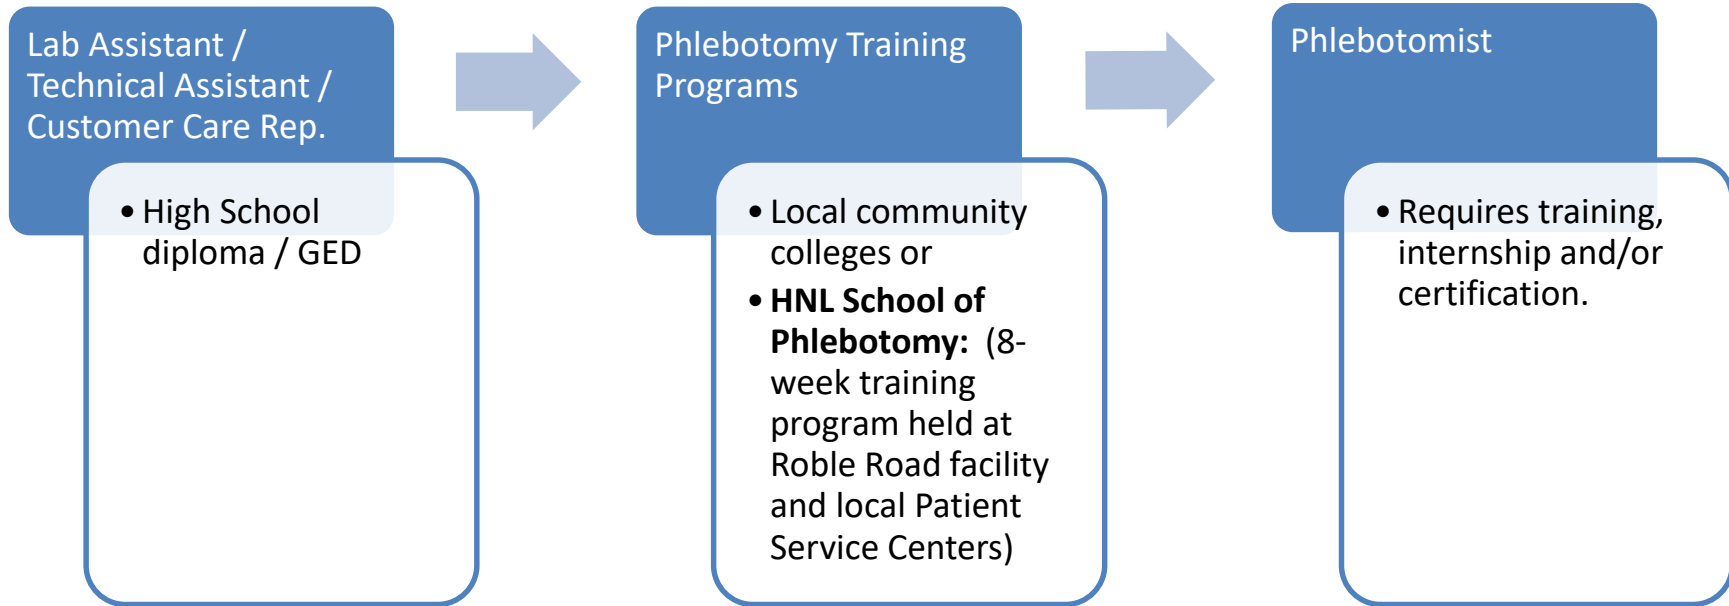

Lab Assistant / Customer Care Representative

Phlebotomist (Requires certification or training)

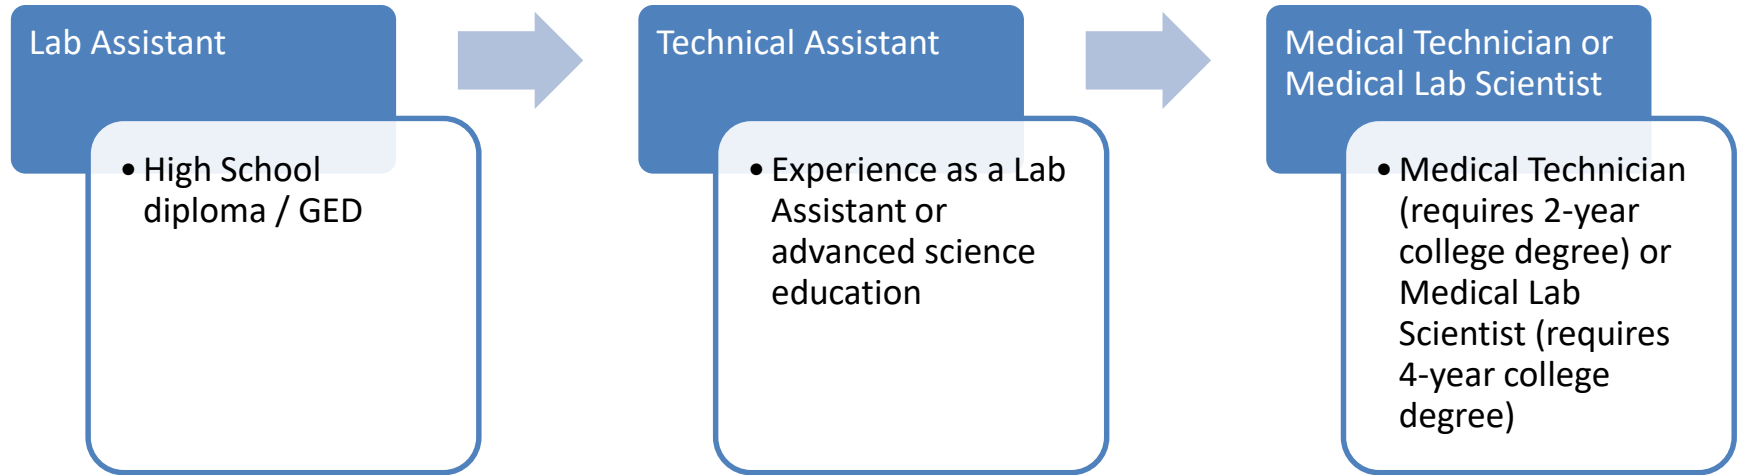

Technical Assistant

Medical Technician (Requires 2-year college degree) OR Medical Laboratory Scientist (Requires 4-year college degree)

Pathway to becoming a Phlebotomist

Pathway to Clinical Lab Testing

Educational Programs for Phlebotomy

- HNL School of Phlebotomy:
Contact Brian.DeFluri@healthnetworklabs.com for additional information.
- Use google search engine (search “accredited phlebotomy programs”) to find additional programs

Medical Technician Programs

Health Network Laboratories has numerous affiliations with Medical Lab Science programs (not limited to):

- Reading Area Community College
- Montgomery County Community College
- Penn State Hazleton
- PA College of Health Sciences

Contact Karlene.Brintzenhoff@healthnetworklabs.com for additional information.

Also go to NAACLS accredited college programs for additional program information.